

NAZIS ON RUN IN ITALY AND RUSSIA

THREE-POWER
ROUND TABLE
WORK BEGINSNO SNAGS EXPECTED
FOR CONFERENCE
IN MOSCOW

BY EDDY GILMORE
Moscow, Oct. 19 (AP)—Foreign secretaries of the United States, Britain and Soviet Russia sat down around a conference table today in the opening formal session of the long-awaited three-power conference to tell one another, as a spokesman phrased it tonight, "frankly and freely what's on one another's mind."

Although U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, British Secretary Anthony Eden and Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov held informal preliminary discussions last night soon after the arrival of the visiting officials, today's session marked the first transaction of real business.

Groundwork Laid
Early in the day Eden went to Spasskaya house, official residence of the U. S. ambassador, where Hull is staying, and talked with the secretary of state. Later, Molotov returned Hull's call of last night. Then the three got down to work at 6 p. m.

An American spokesman said Hull had no agenda prepared in advance of his coming to Moscow and that topics would form as the discussions went forward.

Much of the important groundwork will be laid here for future important conversations among United Nations leaders which will be far-reaching in scope.

(Prime Minister Churchill has said that it is hoped a Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting can be held before the end of the year.)

The Hull-Eden-Molotov conference is not expected to run into any permanent snags despite the fact that vitally important matters will come up for discussion for the first time. As a groundwork conference it is expected that it will settle numerous matters before other leaders meet.

Make Front Page
The first statements made by Hull and Eden upon their arrival were printed on the front pages of Moscow newspapers today, although none of the papers commented editorially on the conference.

All newspapers carried large front-page pictures of Hull, Eden and Molotov at the airport, and Muscovites stood in long lines to buy them.

The foreign secretaries are believed to be discussing not only wartime but post-war matters of a military, political and economic nature, and the Russians have said that one of the important topics to be brought up will be that of a "second front" in western Europe.

Public School Aid
Sentiment Divided

Washington, Oct. 19 (AP)—Party ranks divided today as the Senate neared the end of a debate on a bill authorizing the government to grant $300,000,000 annually to the public schools.

Forecasting a vote tomorrow, Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) told reporters he thought the bill's supporters had sufficient strength to pass it.

Senator Andrews (D-Fla.), remarking that the principal opposition sprang from a belief the bill might lead to federal control of the schools, offered a proposed constitutional amendment to clear away any doubt.

CRASH KILLS THREE

Detroit, Oct. 19 (AP)—A mother and father and one of their six children were killed in an automobile accident here today. The victims were Edgar P. Defer, 38; his wife, Phyllis, 35, and their only son, Lawrence, 2. Another child, Barbara Ann, 5, was critically injured.

Air Assault
On Naziland
Is Unabated

BY ROBERT N. STURDEVANT
London, Oct. 19 (AP)—The allies kept up their aerial onslaught today with raids by British fighters and light bombers on Nazi transportation as RAF pilots returning from last night's blow at Hannover reported little fighter opposition.

London had its fourth successive air raid alarm today, a brief alert in which some casualties were believed caused by scattered Nazi planes. Anti-aircraft guns began blasting furiously immediately after the alarm was sounded. It was London's ninth alert this month.

RAF coastal command Beaufighters attacked the German merchant ship Stralsburg off the coast of the Netherlands and scored several hits on the vessel, which had been damaged in an earlier attack. A British air ministry communiqué said one RAF plane was lost in the attack.

A fighting French Spitfire pilot scored several hits on a 1,000-ton ship off Ostend and RAF Typhoons left an 800-ton naval auxiliary vessel beached and burning in the mouth of the Schelde.

Industrial City Doomed
Whirlwind bombers kept up their train-busting raids in northern France, knocking out three locomotives and damaging at least a dozen freight trains.

The raid on Hannover was the fourth heavy blow against the prize German industrial city in the last 30 days.

The British and Germans exchanged blows Monday night in a small-scale "battle of the capitals." Fast Mosquitos slashed at Berlin for the fourth time this month and a few Nazi fighter-bombers dropped high explosives at five points in London.

The Hannover assault ended 10 days of inactivity for the RAF, whose heavy bombers had not been out since October 8, when they hit Hanover at a cost of 31 planes. Last night's raid cost 17.

By concentrating on Hannover, one of the biggest German rubber centers and an important rail junction, the British indicated they intended to render it useless to the Nazi war effort with much like the tremendous blows that knocked out Hanover in four night saturation raids.

FUEHRER SEEKS
NEW STRATEGY

Desperate Reich Leaders
Threatened With Total Defeat

London, Oct. 19 (AP)—Adolf Hitler today held his second grand strategy parley in two weeks, presumably to explore avenues of escape from the consequences of total defeat, as representatives of Germany's three strongest enemies gathered in Moscow to plot the liquidation of his empire.

A communiqué from the Nazi fuhrer's headquarters announced that Hitler and other speakers who were not identified addressed a meeting of the highest political and military authorities of Germany called together by the chief of the high command of the armed forces, Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel.

The character of the meeting suggested that all the Reich's service chiefs were engaged in a complete overhauling of German strategy to meet the multiple threat posed by the Russian summer offensive, the allied invasion of Italy, the still mounting allied air attack from the west and the changing attitude of neutrals as reflected in Portugal's release of its Azores bases to the British and Spain's new neutrality.

Presumably since political as well as military leaders were present, the two groups exchanged ideas on methods to keep both the home and the fighting fronts intact through the winter and into the spring which is expected to bring the heaviest of all military blows against Hitler's shrinking European fortress.

Forest Fire Hazard Emergency Ended

Lansing, Oct. 19 (AP)—Governor Kelly today removed an executive order prohibiting all open fires and smoking in the woods and brush lands of Northern Michigan, declaring the forest fire emergency which necessitated the order "has now passed."

The order was imposed when scores of brush and forest fires swept over thousands of tinder-dry acres in the Michigan north woods. Rain and snow since have relieved the condition, and the governor's proclamation said there no longer was reason to prohibit normally careful use of fire.

Allied Planes Destroy
60 Aircraft At Rabaul
And Sink Three Vessels

BY VERN HAUGLAND
Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Wednesday, Oct. 20 (AP)—Destruction of 60 Japanese planes in a new bombing assault on Rabaul, New Britain, bringing the total there to more than 200 within less than a week, was reported today by General MacArthur.

Along with the victory, however, a spokesman disclosed the first allied ground reverse in many weeks in the New Guinea jungle front.

Mitchell medium bombers, at a cost of three of their group, bagged the planes and sank at least three enemy ships, including a destroyer, in a low level strike Monday at Rabaul which on last October 12 was pounded with 350 tons of bombs by the biggest air force yet amassed for a single operation in this sector.

The Japanese ground success, of unspecified extent, was scored in the area of Sattelberg, 15 miles northwest of Finschhafen, New Guinea, whose capture on October 2 by Australians provided General MacArthur with a potential springboard along the Huon gulf for a short overwater invasion of New Britain.

The communiqué today made no reference to the reverse but a headquarters spokesman said the Japanese, who have been holding on grimly around Sattelberg since they lost Finschhafen, had made

ADDED FEDERAL TAXES OPPOSED

House Group Doubtful
Of Passing Revenue
Law This Year

Washington, Oct. 19 (AP)—Republican members of the tax-drafting House Ways and Means committee declared themselves today solidly against any further increase in federal taxation, raising serious doubts that a new wartime revenue law can be enacted this year.

"We believe," they declared, "that a further increase in taxation at this time would threaten the future solvency of American business and bring about the liquidation of the middle class."

The statement made no specific mention of a federal retail sales tax, but one leading Republican said "that issue is dead."

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, backed up the minority committee members, demanding an end to "happy-go-lucky spending" and "wastefulness" in the war effort as well as in the regular government departments.

The move dealt a final blow to the administration's proposal to raise $10,500,000,000 additional revenue through increased individual and corporate income levies and larger excises on so-called luxuries.

Democrats, though themselves wintery toward large parts of the administration program, said they did not intend to "play politics with the tax program."

COLLECTION COSTS CUT
Lansing, Oct. 19 (AP)—The state department of revenue, claiming substantial economies in operations, reported today it had saved $49,242 in automobile costs for the first nine months of this year, compared with the same period of 1941. At the same time, it reported a saving of $133,650 by reducing field division staffs from 264 to 198 in the same period.

DNEIPEP LOOP
WINTER LINE
FALLS APARTRUSSIANS CUT OFF
ESCAPE RAILWAY
ON RIVER BEND

BY JUDSON O'QUINN
London, Oct. 19 (AP)—Swift Russian columns capitalizing upon a major breakthrough south-east of Kremenchuk struck behind large German forces in the big Dnieper River bend today and cut their main escape railway to the west, a Soviet communiqué announced tonight.

In fighting described by both Berlin and Moscow as extremely bloody, the Russians captured the rail junction of Pyatikhatka, more than 30 miles inside the Dnieper at its nearest point, a full 70 miles west of the Germans in Dnepropetrovsk and astride the main railway from that city west to Znamenka.

Advance Up To 12 Miles
Although the Red army rolled over more than 100 towns and villages in the drive, which carried forward for advances of from 9 to 12 miles, said the broadcast communiqué, recorded by the Soviet Monitor. Eleven large towns were among those taken.

Berlin already had acknowledged a breakthrough on this sector and had told of a Nazi retreat of 12 miles. The Germans described the breakthrough as limited, but otherwise agreed in substance with the Soviet accounts, although

LIQUOR BUYING
NOW UP TO OPA

State Commission Seeks Outside Supply To Ease Shortage

Lansing, Oct. 19 (AP)—The state liquor control commission today laid before representatives of the Office of Price Administration (OPA) its reasons for announcing a plan to permit public drinking places and clubs to purchase liquor outside of Michigan.

Wayne E. Babler, district chief price attorney of OPA, told the commission it would receive a decision within a few days unless officials struck an unforeseen snag in considering the question.

The OPA has objected to the plan on the ground the state's decision to impose a 23 per cent "markup" after the liquor reaches Michigan would constitute a violation of price ceilings.

R. Glenn Dunn, retiring chairman, and Commissioner Felix H. H. Flynn told Babler and C. Walter Healy, district enforcement attorney, that plenty of precedent existed for the plan since Michigan for many years has permitted persons who acquired liquor outside the state to import it upon payment of the usual markup charged on state purchased liquor.

The commission emphasized that it did not intend to buy outside liquors and then add the markup, but planned to permit dealers to do so at the existing OPA price ceilings in other states.

Flynn said the commission had assurances from drinking place operators that they would not increase prices of drinks sold to customers because of the higher prices they paid for the supply.

"It simply will mean," Flynn said, "that the licensee will take a smaller profit. He is willing to do that in order to have something to sell and to keep up with his continuing overhead costs."

Yugoslav Guerrillas Advancing On Danube

BY ERNEST AGNEW
London, Oct. 19 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic has flung his army of more than 100,000 Yugoslavs against the Germans and is advancing steadily toward the great loop of the Danube, the bottleneck on the river's course via the Rumanian oil fields to the Black Sea, a Cairo report said tonight.

According to these advices, Mihailovic, in his first activity in months, is threatening German traffic on the Danube which passes in northeastern Serbia through the famous "Iron Gate," formed by high bluffs dominating a narrow stretch of the river.

The activity of his forces coincided with the announcement that Allied planes yesterday made an initial attack in Yugoslavia, bombing the transportation facilities in the strategic city of Skopje, the capital of southern Serbia 60 miles west of the Bulgarian border.

Skopje, a center of rail and highway networks, commands the Vardar Valley leading south into the Salonika area of Greece. The German radio, in a broadcast recorded by the British ministry of information, predicted today that the Allies would attempt landings soon in the Salonika area.

The spreading resistance in the Balkans found the Germans under Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel faced with three guerrilla armies. In addition to Mihailovic's units these included the partisans of Gen. Josip Tito in Yugoslavia and a resurgent Albanian force which was said to have become active within recent weeks.

U. S. Submarines Bag
98 More Jap Ships

BY HAMILTON W. FARON
Washington, Oct. 19 (AP)—American submarines have sunk 98 more Japanese merchant ships, bringing to 460 the number of enemy vessels sunk, probably sunk or damaged since the war started.

Secretary of the Navy Knox reported this today in releasing at a press conference a communiqué which also listed five vessels probably sunk and 45 others damaged in the latest submarine war patrols.

The new list of enemy losses lent emphasis to the enemy's difficulties in supplying island bases, already apparent in the use of more and more barges to move men and supplies.

The navy gave no specific information on where the latest attacks were made. But strong indication that some of the submarines may have duplicated the feats of previous raiders and slipped into harbors of Japan was given in the communiqué which mentioned "carrying the war to the enemy's closest home waters."

Here are the figures on the latest heavy blows inflicted by submarines:
Sunk—Six large tankers, 17 large cargo-supply ships, 45 medium sized cargo-supply ships, three large transports, two medium sized tankers, five small cargo ships, 20 miscellaneous vessels.

Probably sunk—Five medium sized cargo vessels.
Damaged—Four large tankers, two transports, two large cargo supply vessels, 31 medium sized cargo supply vessels, five miscellaneous vessels, one small cargo supply vessel.

In the over-all total of 460 ships sunk, probably sunk or damaged since the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, the navy compilation showed 319 sunk, 36 probably sunk and 105 damaged.

MACOMB GETS VICE WARNING

Responsibility Placed On Prosecutor By Rushton

Lansing, Oct. 19 (AP)—Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton today made public text of a letter he said he had written to Prosecutor Wilbur P. Held of Macomb county declaring he would hold the prosecutor responsible for enforcement of gambling and vice laws in the county.

The attorney general's text referred to the complaint of the Men's Club of the St. Clair Shores Methodist church that gambling and vice resorts have done a thriving business in that county.

"Of course," the text said, "you appreciate that if the stories are true and you fail to act, my department will be obliged to step in."

Rushton also sent an open letter to H. C. Wing, president of the Men's Club, advising him of his action and assuring him that "my department will watch the situation very closely."

The attorney general said he would rely heavily upon the state police in inquiring into law enforcement in the county, despite the club's request that he send other investigators in there. Rushton announced that he has abolished the job of Joseph Mandarano, an investigator on his staff, who had submitted a generalized report to the late James F. Shepherd, deputy attorney general, asserting that he learned from informants that some houses of prostitution and gambling resorts were operated in Macomb, but mentioning no names or places.

Rushton described the report as "hearsay."

Rushton emphasized in the letter to Wing that "you will understand that this department is not a detective agency. We have no policemen. I requested the legislature in 1941 to create a detective bureau for this department. It was refused. The papers opposed it and said it was a get-to method and therefore it was defeated."

Pine Lodge Looted;
Only Bar Remains

Chicago, Oct. 19 (AP)—Burglars who looted the Pine Lodge in suburban Skokie left only the bar, and that was nailed down.

G. W. Elliott, the owner, reported to police today that the burglars took 22 tables, 112 chairs, 230 pounds of beef, 19 pounds of pork, 50 pounds of butter, $400 from the cash register, $500 worth of liquor and all furnishings but the bar.

Ten Fliers Saved
In North Atlantic

Ottawa, Oct. 19 (AP)—Ten United States Army fliers have been rescued by the Canadian minesweeper Georgian after they drifted on two rubber rafts for 18 hours in the iceberg-dotted North Atlantic. Naval service headquarters announced today.

When the rescue was carried out was not stated. The airmen's Flying Fortress had to be crash-landed after it developed engine trouble. It broke in two as it hit the water and sank.

ENEMY GIVES UP DEFENSES
AT VOLTURNO

AMERICANS SMASH
THROUGH, TAKE FIVE TOWNS

BY NOLAN NORGARD
Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Oct. 19 (AP)—Badly mauled in six days of heavy attacks by American and British troops, the German army guarding the gateways to Rome fell back on new mountain positions today under fresh onslaughts by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army after surmounting eight more Italian towns and villages.

The enemy, shorn of air support, fled from his last positions overlooking the lower Volturno river when American forces ripped a sawing breach in Nazi defenses 30 miles inland from the Mediterranean coast, where the Volturno swings in a westerly direction.

Bloody Battle Ends
The bloody and furiously fought battle of the Volturno, as such, ended when American troops rammed their way from three to five miles through the Germans' strong mountain defenses to seize five towns in twin thrusts on either side of the upper Volturno. These villages, taken in a bitter hard-won infantry advance, were Gioia, Liberi, Falceio, Pontelatone and Alvinzano.

"These gains on the mountain heights are where they count," said an allied military spokesman. "If the mountains are taken the Germans will be forced to abandon the lowlands along the coast."

That the enemy already was feeling this pressure was indicated in an announcement that British amphibious forces which landed near the mouth of the Volturno last week had captured the town of Bressa, near the coast just north of the river.

Eighth Army Gains
The end of the Volturno battle coincided with fresh gains by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army on the central and Adriatic sectors of the fighting line and the first heavy blow by Italy-based American bombers and fighters at the key Yugoslav communication center of Skopje, on the only rail line between Belgrade and Athens.

Some of the day's hardest fighting developed in the Eighth army's capture of Santo Stefano after a four-mile advance. The Germans counterattacked furiously time and again, but were repelled by Montgomery's veterans. Possession of Montegiffone, near the Adriatic coast, was firmly secured after a day of hard street fighting.

Striking with a speed and precision that caught the German anti-aircraft defenses flatfooted, Mitchell medium bombers and Lightning fighters left in smoking ruins the railroad yards at Skopje, through which the enemy must funnel the bulk of his heavy military traffic to Greece, both through the Vardar valley to Salonika and through Monastir Gap into central Greece.

Rain Is Handicap
As a result of the new American breakthrough on the right wing of Gen. Clark's front, enemy forces north of Capua were confronted with a fresh threat to their flank.

Despite their stubborn withdrawals of recent days, the Germans still possess a strong defense line in the rugged mountainous area extending from the 2,500-foot heights of Massico ridge, which is only three miles north of British positions near the west coast.

LIONS TO ERECT SERVICE ROSTER

Names Of All Escanabans In Uniform To Be On 12x30-Ft. Board

As soon as the list of names can be assembled, the Escanaba Lions club plans to erect a community honor roll poster board, carrying the names of all Escanaba residents serving in the uniformed forces of the United States. Plans for the project were divulged by President W. J. Laviolette of the Lions club at a regular meeting last night, and final details will be announced by a committee next Monday night. The honor roll will be approximately 12 by 30 feet in size, and will be constructed at a prominent street intersection. There are about 1300 men and women of the city now serving in the uniformed forces, and compiling the list of names will be one of the first tasks of the committee. Draft board records will be used in part, and families of service men and women will be asked to assist by turning in the names of their family members now in United States uniforms. A blank will be published as an aid to gathering the data.

Other events on the Lions calendar outlined last night included: United War Fund benefit shows on November 4, sponsored by the Lions at two local theaters.

The annual fall fun-fest dance for Lions and their friends, to be held at the Elks club November 6. The Lions club annual duck dinner, scheduled for November 8 at the Sherman hotel.

Stiff Fight Waged By French Patriots In Savoy Mountains

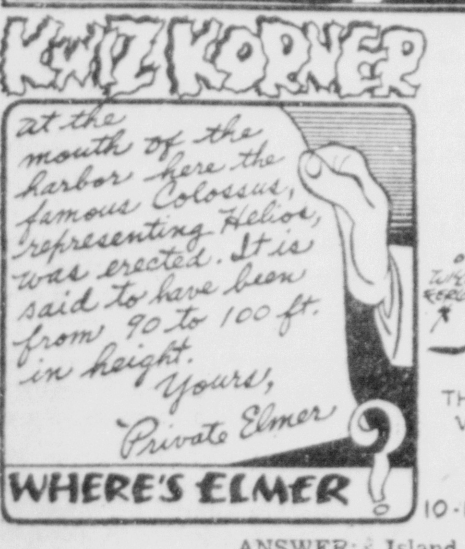

Algiers, Oct. 19 (AP)—For the first time since the occupation of France, the Germans have ordered their forces in the southeastern departments of France to open hostilities against Patriots operating from the Savoy mountains along the Swiss border, the French committee of national liberation said today, adding that "bitter fighting on a fairly large scale" had broken out. The committee said information from France indicated a "critical situation has developed suddenly in upper Savoy where tens of thousands of young Frenchmen are hiding from deportation to Germany."

More Lend-Lease Aid Promised By Soviets

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Oct. 19 (AP)—The United States sought closer teamwork with Russia today by creating a permanent military mission in Moscow and at the same time announced a lend-lease agreement providing increased assistance for the Red armies.

Both moves were disclosed with the opening in Moscow of the crucial three-power conference among Secretary of State Hull, British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden and Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov.

While not directly related with the gathering of the foreign secretaries except in timing they further heightened the attitude of optimism with which Washington has viewed the meeting.

The new lend-lease agreement, retroactive to July 1 and covering a period of twelve months from that date, was formally announced in Washington and London. It was signed by Canadian and British as well as American and Russian representatives and covers all aid to Russia from the three western allies. The United States specifically commits itself to heavier shipments of munitions and food and it is understood that even these promised increases over the previous twelve months period may be exceeded, due primarily to improved shipping conditions. The commitments do not cover all that the Russians asked, which was considerable, but represent a compromise satisfactory to all parties between the requests and allied ability to meet them.

The Russians likewise made substantial promises to furnish reverse lend-lease in the form of raw materials, such as manganese and critical ores. Russia's share will be much greater than heretofore since her lend-lease output in past has been limited largely to the servicing of allied ships in Russian ports.

WE, the WOMEN BY RUTH MILLETT

Conditions these days may be a bit different for the wife whose husband is one of those fathers who believes one minute he will likely be drafted and the next he may not.

Chances are that her husband, because of the worry and uncertainty he is going through, is harder to live with, harder to please, harder to talk to.

"A wife, shouldn't let that upset her, nor should she blame her husband for it. He'll be all right once his fate is decided. It's not knowing how to plan and what to do that makes him worry."

Meanwhile a wife can help the situation a little if she will do these things:

Quit talking about the problem unless her husband brings it up. Check the impulse to talk over with her husband every idea she has for what she will do and how she will live if her husband goes. She should sit down and figure out what looks like the best solution to her, and then tell her husband she thinks that is what she ought to do. He'll be relieved to know that she can work out her own life—for she'll have to, if he does leave her to go into the service.

Plan Social Life
Plan some social life of the kind her husband enjoys, so that he doesn't sit around night after night worrying. Avoid any kind of talk such as, "I don't know what I'll do if you have to leave us, or how I'll ever manage the children without your help."

Keep her own worries and troubles and difficulties from him, trying to make his home life as smooth and uncomplicated as possible. That is about as much as a wife can do to help her husband through the trying period of waiting to see what the future holds for him and his family.

Peninsula Heroes Honored By Army

Selfridge Field, Mich., Oct. 19 (AP)—The Purple Heart, air medals and Oak Leaf clusters will be presented to the next of kin of five Michigan members of the Army Air Forces at a public ceremony tomorrow (Wednesday) at 2 p. m. at Selfridge Field.

Two of the men winning awards have been listed by the War Department as killed in action. The other three are missing in action.

The Purple Heart and an air medal with two Oak Leaf clusters, awarded posthumously to Tech. Sgt. Tony Shubat, will be received by his father, Joseph Shubat, 230 Birkshire, Caspian, Mich. The Purple Heart was awarded Sgt. Shubat by Direction of the President of the United States for having made "the supreme sacrifice in defense of his country."

The air medal was awarded by command of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle for Sgt. Shubat's participation in five bombardment sorties in North Africa. The Oak Leaf clusters, awarded by command of Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz, were for destruction of an enemy ME-109 plane and for participation in five other sorties against the enemy in North Africa.

Mrs. Madalyn Baird, 325 W. Magnetic, Marquette, will receive the air medal award her husband, 2nd Lt. Fred H. Bair, missing in action in the South Pacific area. The award was directed by the President in recognition of his meritorious achievement during 10 aerial photographic missions over enemy territory between May 25 and June 17, 1943. The citation says "the flights were hazardous in nature and the missions were accomplished by extraordinary determination and high disregard for personal safety."

Air medals will also be received by Mrs. Beulah C. Crockett, of Grosse Pointe, whose son, 2nd Lt. George W. Crockett, Jr., is missing in action; by Edward J. DeCoster of Detroit whose son, 2nd Lt. Edward J. DeCoster is missing in action over continental Europe; and by Mrs. Margie Conley, of Detroit, whose husband, Tech. Sgt. Harry D. Conley, has been reported killed in action over continental Europe.

BY JAMES J. STREIBIG
Associated Press Aviation Editor
Washington, Oct. 19 (AP)—The war department has established the principle of a separate air force in a new field service regulation declaring "land power and air power are co-equal and interdependent forces. Neither is an auxiliary of the other."

Disclosure of this description of the relationship of the two forces came in a revision of the field service regulations entitled "command and employment of airpower," issued as a superseding order for a regulation which had been put into effect as recently as January 18. The revision was printed under a date of July 21.

While not creating a separate air force—a step which aviation proponents have urged repeatedly for some time—the order establishes an equality between the land and air forces, both of them to act under a superior commander in the theater of operations.

The regulations were issued by order of the secretary of war and signed by General George C. Marshall, chief of staff. The war department made no public announcement of this step.

The principle of a single command is in use at present. An outstanding example is General Dwight D. Eisenhower's position as supreme commander in the Mediterranean area through which he has been able to use land, sea and air power in combined operations with tremendous effect.

The new regulation appears to write into the war department manual a definition of the status of the air force which confirms the experience in actual war operations.

Rifle Falls Down; Logger At Big Bay Accidentally Killed

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 19 (AP)—Thomas Piggett, 52, logging operator who resided on the Big Bay highway six miles north of Marquette, was accidentally killed this morning when a loaded rifle which he kept above the door of his camp fell and was discharged.

Coroner Marvin P. Fassbender said the bullet from the rifle, which Piggett kept handy for shooting bears which had been stealing pigs from his camp, entered Piggett's left hip and passed upward through his body. The gun was jarred loose when Piggett kicked open the door while carrying two pails of water into the house.

Piggett has relatives residing in Detroit, including a daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Butler (933 Delaware), who has been notified and will arrive in Marquette tomorrow.

Ineligibility of Higbe Indicates Rules Still Hold

BY WHITNEY MARTIN
New York, Oct. 19 (AP)—We didn't know the army had athletic eligibility rules until Kirby Higbe was banned as a ringer in a championship baseball game at Fort Jackson.

It always was our understanding that if a soldier wasn't in the peppy or on K. P. or some other special detail he could do what the other soldiers did, from playing baseball to shooting craps.

The reception center team had planned to get Higbe in the lineup for its big game with the 100th infantry division team, although he was still on his induction furlough and had never so much as seen the reception center team, let alone played on it.

There was a natural squawk from the infantrymen, with the result that Higbe just watched the game, possibly wondering why on earth he had cut short his furlough, which still had a couple of weeks to run.

Now had Kirby, or Koiby, to use the Brooklyn accent, completed his furlough when the championship game came up we see no reason why he would not be allowed to play, as it isn't like he was a tramp athlete bumming around looking for a place to pick up a little gravy. As we understand it soldiers still go where they are told, and if they don't like the arrangements they can take it up with their sergeant. The sergeant will tell them where to go.

Some Chances
As far as we know an athlete reporting to V-12 schools for navy training can jump off a train, gallop to the stadium and take the ball on a spinner through left tackle and nothing will be said about it, unless he's thrown for a loss. The only eligibility rule seems to be that requiring a player to be at least en route to the school.

This little eligibility Gremlin which hopped up at Fort Jackson only serves to emphasize the change in, or rather, the disappearance of, eligibility rules in practically all fields of sports.

Only a couple of years ago a youngster couldn't play on a big college football team until his history had been traced back to the cradle. They had residence rules, and transfer rules, and classroom attendance rules, and woe to anyone who at any time had received as much as a dime for using his athletic skill, even if it was to win a pie eating contest.

Now what happens? A high school graduate can matriculate at a big school and immediately start to play varsity football. Or a college man may join the navy V-12 program, be transferred to another school, and start playing against his former teammates.

Former out and out pros, with commissions, play on some of the navy teams against callow youngsters fresh from the prep schools, and to top it off the V-12 students actually are paid to go to school.

This is no criticism of the present setup. In times like these we believe in allowing everyone possible to take part in competitive athletics, regardless of an individual's previous participation or monetary remuneration for professional services. The idea is to

SCOUT CAMPING CHIEF ARRIVES

Facilities At Red Buck To Be Inspected By National Official

Local Boy Scout leaders today will visit Camp Red Buck, scene of local Boy Scout outings, in company with Wes Klusman, national director of camping and activities, who arrived in Escanaba last night.

In the party leaving Escanaba at 9 o'clock this morning will be Mr. Klusman; Clarence Zerbel, council commissioner; A. V. Aronson, district chairman of camping and activities; and C. L. Colburn, area Scout executive. They will be joined by Wallace Cameron of Gladstone, Red Buck camp director for this season; William Cox of Munising, council chairman of camping and activities; and probably other Scout leaders from the Escanaba, Gladstone, Munising and Manistique areas.

As director of the national camping and activities service for the Boy Scouts of America, Mr. Klusman gives leadership to provide advisory services to local councils on all phases of the administration and program for Scout camps and the promotion of a year-around program involving camping, special events and civic service.

Other duties and interests include the inspection of camps and the development of literature on camping and activities subjects.

make our soldiers and sailors and marines combative, and not to conduct experiments in amateur ethics.

Getting back to Higbe, there undoubtedly was some justification in barring him, inasmuch as he was in the army only theoretically. But it does seem odd to run across a case of any kind where an athlete is declared ineligible for anything. In other words, they're practically ineligible to be ineligible.

Berlin as usual said the withdrawal was orderly. The Russian advance was made by forces "fighting all the time," tonight's bulletin said, and more than 1,800 German officers and men were captured along with 15 loaded railway trains, 30 tanks, including seven "Tigers," 172 guns, 1,300 motor trucks and much other equipment.

More Retreats Indicated
The Moscow communique, in telling of taking Pyatikhatka and other railway towns, observed that "the most important German communications, along the Dnepropetrovsk - Znamenska railway have been cut by our troops."

Berlin throughout the day had been telling of the great battle in this region, stating that the Russians "time and again" threw in large reinforcements. The battle tonight, Berlin said, was growing in fury, and the Russians were using their air force in an "extraordinarily extensive manner."

Berlin added that "This fighting must be expected to continue also during the next few days"—an apparent indication the Germans expect to fall back farther.

Resolutions Are Adopted At Blaney

At the recent Development Bureau meeting and regional clinic at Blaney Park, resolutions were adopted thanking Governor Harry F. Kelly, staff and members of the Michigan Planning Commission for their visit to Blaney and their interest in Upper Peninsula problems.

Other resolutions asked the aid of the Governor and the Legislature in saving at least a part of the virgin timber in the Porcupine Mountains area, and solicited their interest on behalf of the Bodi Lake tract of original white and red pine, which may soon be cut unless action is taken. The Michigan Conservation Department was asked to take necessary steps to maintain and improve game fishing in Upper Peninsula streams and lakes.

Another appropriation for tourist advertising was asked from the Legislature, and the Mackinac Straits bridge project was again endorsed. The state highway department was thanked for its assurance that the hard-surfacing of highways US-45, M-28, M-26 and US-141 will be completed as soon as possible, and that other highway improvements will be carried on wherever possible.

Resolutions of condolence were ordered sent to the relatives of Edward A. Hamar, Chassell, past president; Roger Andrews, Mominie, leading founder of the Bureau; Dr. C. F. Whiteshield, Trout Creek, former Bureau director; Hugh J. Gray, Grand Rapids, and Thos. F. Marston, Bay City, former secretaries of the West Michigan and East Michigan Tourist associations respectively. Another resolution remembered William E. Smith of Mohawk, Bureau director now ill in a Detroit hospital. The speakers, the Earle brothers of Blaney Park and the press also received resolutions of thanks and appreciation.

Need Woolen Materials
Escanaba, Michigan
October 18, 1943
Escanaba Daily Press
Escanaba, Michigan
Gentlemen:

St. Luke's Hospital of Marquette, Michigan needs woolen materials for the Kenny Hot packs used in treating acute cases of infantile paralysis.

With the scarcity of wool, they are having difficulty in securing sufficient quantities to effectively carry on the treatments.

I trust I may make this appeal to the papers who will ask the people of Delta County to help out by gathering up old woolen garments, blankets or other materials containing 60% or more of wool, and leave such articles at the police stations at Escanaba and Gladstone. We will gather it up and forward it to the hospital. Colored materials containing wool will do, providing they are color fast.

At the present moment we are expecting to send two of our Delta County child patients to St. Luke's hospital for these treatments and we feel we must do everything we can under the circumstances.

Whatever publicity you can give us on this matter will be very greatly appreciated.

Yours very truly,

WRITES FROM PRISON

Crystal Falls—Lieut. Robert Scott Tower, former Crystal Falls teacher who was brought down over Germany in a bomber raid last spring and is a prisoner of war, writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Tower, Ypsilanti, that his camp is 90 miles west of Berlin.

In his first letter home, written July 4, he said that he and three comrades are all "distastefully healthy," are doing their own cooking and have a vegetable garden. He is teaching biology and playing a trumpet in a music appreciation class.

Wounded Soldier Tells What War Fund Means

Battle Creek, Oct. 19 (AP)—Staff Sgt. Victor E. Watson of Princeton, Ill., who lost an eye when he was struck by German shrapnel in the battle of Meuse, has good reason to urge support of the war chest drive. Watson is being treated at Percy Jones hospital in Battle Creek.

"Sometimes it's hard to understand what a dollar or five dollars or 10 dollars can mean in a case like this," he said. "But I know and so do all of the fellows in the wards here. When you're out there giving all you have to fight the most important thing in the world is the thought that when it's over you can take it easy at the USO. Boy, it seems good. And we know, too, that lots of other organizations are doing their damndest to make things a little easier for us and our Allies. That's what counts."

Watson's father is employed in an ordnance plant producing shells of the type the youth used with his field artillery outfit in North Africa.

Seeking the shelter of a foxhole when he dug with the crank of a jeep, Watson said fellow soldiers told him later he was blown nearly 100 feet into the air when the German shell which tore shrapnel into his eye landed only a few yards away.

Magazine Digest Has Article On Alumnus Of Tech

Houghton—James A. Keast, better known as "Jim" to hundreds of Michigan Tech alumni and other mining men in the Upper Peninsula and Canada, is the subject of an article in the September issue of the Magazine Digest. This Canadian publication devotes six pages, under the title of "Pusher-Upper from Down Under," to a summary of Keast's adventurous life as water boy, miner, major of artillery in the Australian Imperial forces during World War I, manager of four different Canadian mines, and finally as the man who revolutionized mining and labor relations practices at the great Broken Hill Mine in New South Wales, Australia.

Keast graduated from Michigan Tech, then known as the Michigan College of Mines, in 1923, with the degrees of bachelor of science and engineer of mines. On campus he proved an outstanding leader, as his military career had promised. Though he worked his way through MCM, he made an enviable record both academically and in student affairs.

After graduation he went to Ontario and thence to Quebec. Beginning as an ordinary miner, he rose to be manager successively of four leading properties. His achievements, during the early thirties, in making the Beattie Gold Mines outstandingly efficient and profitable led to his being called back to Broken Hill, to the mine where he had once worked as a water boy.

In the seven years since then, according to "Pusher-Upper from Down Under," he has set a standard which has improved mining procedures and management-labor policies in many parts of the world, and which will bear fruit for decades to come.

INDUSTRIAL TAX UP TO COUNCIL

Proposal to Raise Tax for Industrial Development To Be Considered

The Escanaba city council will meet at 8 o'clock Friday night in the council chambers at the city hall, with Mayor Sam Wickman presiding, to discuss, among other business, a proposal to increase the city tax rate to provide revenue for an industrial development fund.

The proposal has received wide support from service clubs, fraternal organizations, and local unions.

Briefly, the suggested resolution to come before the council would state the wording for a ballot on the question which would be submitted to a city-wide referendum. The people would vote on the question of whether they favored increasing the tax rate one and one-half mills to bring revenue for an industrial promotion fund.

Other business to come before the council includes: Request of the Lions club for lighting of the city service men's roster.

Communication from the city of Wakefield regarding an increase in meat ratings.

Consideration of funds for a preliminary architectural plan on a city-county building.

The meeting is to be held Friday instead of Thursday night because of the inability of one member to attend a Thursday night meeting.

The Roving Reporter

By ERNIE PYLE

Editor's Note: This is another of the favorite Ernie Pyle columns of past years, which are being reprinted during his vacation. This one was written in 1938.

San Francisco—Last night was the captain's dinner on the S. S. Lurline, homeward bound from Honolulu.

The captain's dinner is always fun. All the men who have dinner clothes wear them, and the women get the last of their Hawaiian corsages out of their ship's refrigerator and pin them on their evening gowns. People who haven't showed up for days gird up their mal-de-mer on the last night, and make it down to dinner.

The dining room is full of noise, and people are gay, and everybody except an occasional old codfish like me wears a crazy paper hat. And the air is full of wild balloons you knock from one table to another.

They even bring down the orchestra, and they go around to the tables of all newlyweds on board and play honeymoon pieces, and the victims smile and look silly.

It was the gayest captain's dinner I've seen in all my 40 years behind the porthole, and we should have known that the evening could end only in catastrophe and pain.

After dinner a good share of the crowd made for the ballroom, where the last night of dancing was going on. People had invited shipboard friends for farewell parties, and little groups sat about the round tables when they weren't busy switching partners and trying to dance with everybody.

As dancing, it wasn't much. But as fun, it was great. The sea was very rough in a steady, far-over, pendulumlike roll. It was like trying to dance on a teeter-totter.

Whenever the ship hit top dead center on her wallow from one side to the other, you could work in a couple of quick steps. But the rest of the time you were simply sliding.

The floor would tilt to where you dare not step, then you and your partner would face downhill, get a good grip on each other, and slide the length of the floor as though you were on skates. Everybody had to do it. It was as good as skiing.

But now we are approaching the catastrophe. Be tense.

I am sliding gracefully from one end of the floor to the other, see? My partner is a Navy man's wife, and she's about as skinny as I am, see? And it's all a lot of fun, see, until suddenly we start a roll, and I can't explain how you could tell, but I knew the second that roll began that we were in for it.

The second-guessers afterward said we should all have sat down on the floor right quickly. But somehow you couldn't sit down. You just had to stay on your feet until you had smashed full-length against the deck.

About two dozen people were dancing at the time, and in less than two seconds of sliding, grabbing and shrieking the two dozen were piled in a grotesque heap amongst the tables and chairs at the far end of the hall.

People hit the deck hard. One fellow, with his head, uprooted a big round table screwed down with four big bolts. Chairs and glasses went flying. Miraculously no bones were broken, but people got bad bruises and nasty cuts. The doctor had a busy night. A lot of adhesive-taped faces crossed the gangplank this morning.

As for me, I fell for 30 feet and landed backwards, smack on the back of my head. During the last two feet of the fall I said a quick and quiet goodbye to the world. I expected to wake up, if at all, in a San Francisco hospital.

Fate saved me. My head cracked like a shotgun when it hit the deck. But it didn't seem to hurt, and I didn't even see stars. Personally, I feel that it was my reward for having lived a just and righteous life.

The Navy man's wife fell all around me. It is my impression that she fell mostly on top of me. But she says I fell on top of her and smashed the wind out of her and hurt her hip. It is my belief that she tripped me to begin with.

But we've made it up and stopped quarreling. For after all we're both alive, even if we are so sore all over today we hardly dare touch ourselves. And we've got a rough-sea experience we can boast about for years.

Today we are on shore again. And all day things have been swaying and rolling. The sidewalks tilt up, and the beds roll over, and this afternoon in the bathtub I had to grab twice for that handle along the wall to keep from falling out of the tub. I thought San Francisco was having an earthquake. But I couldn't find anything about it in the evening papers.

Give Generously

DOLLARS, not pennies, are needed to fill Delta county's quota of $30,000 for the support of necessary war and civilian projects for the coming year. Funds for the support of the work of 21 separate projects, including the USO, Salvation Army and Boy Scouts are to be raised in this nation-wide campaign that is now underway. The only war purpose organization not served by the present drive is the American Red Cross, for the support of which a special campaign must be undertaken, at the direction of the president of the nation. All other fund raising campaigns are united in the present undertaking.

In the past the people of Delta county and of the nation have been called upon to give funds for various war and civilian purposes, with one drive following closely on the heels of another. The elimination of this duplication of effort and giving, in itself, makes the present campaign thoroughly worthwhile, but the public must understand that in giving to this combined campaign relatively small contributions will not suffice. Pennies are acceptable in any campaign, where they represent the true inability of the giver to give more, but it takes dollars and lots of them, to support the facilities of the USO for the benefit of our fighting men in camps at home and abroad; it takes dollars and not pennies to provide extra care and food for the fighting men of this nation who are confined in the prison camps of enemy nations, to say nothing of the desperate need for funds for Chinese relief, Russians relief and the relief of the innocent victims in all of the invaded nations of the world. For the maintenance of Boy Scouting, Campfire Girls, the Salvation Army and the establishment of a greatly needed cod liver oil bank, for the under-nourished children of our own county, adequate funds are required. All of these worthy purposes will be served by the single contribution you will make during the present campaign. In order to rate as a good and a patriotic citizen you must give generously—not niggardly.

An efficient county-wide organization has been set up, under the chairmanship of Gerald J. Cleary. All of those engaged in this big undertaking are giving not only their money but their time, to make possible the subscription of Delta county's quota. All you are asked to give is money, to back up the fighting men and women of this county and to support worth-while local projects.

"Copy the British"

ADOLF HITLER used to tell the German people that the democracies were decadent and their people too soft to put up a real fight against the Nazi might. The falsity of his statements was revealed when the British people withstood the terrific onslaught by the Luftwaffe upon London, Coventry, Bristol and other English cities, even though their anti-aircraft defenses were frightfully weak.

How laughable it is now to see Adolf Hitler's own newspaper, The Voelkischer Beobachter, trying to bolster sagging German morale by urging the people to copy the British.

"Today we must be stubborn," the German newspaper states in an editorial. "Stand on stiff legs and be obstinate as the Britons, who have shown this character when faced by dark moments."

How strange all this must seem to the Nazi youth, who were led to believe that Germans are supermen.

Ontonagon Is Pleased

THE assurance given by Deputy State Highway Commissioner Harry Coons at Blaney Park last week, that highway US-45 is slated for the earliest possible hard-surfacing from the state line across Gogebic and Ontonagon counties into the community of Ontonagon, at the mouth of the famous river of the same name, especially pleasing to the residents of the latter county.

Some years ago, when John R. Merrifield of Sault Ste. Marie was president of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, a road meeting was held at Mackinac Island, and a promise was secured from the State Highway Department that highways US-2, US-41 and M-28 would be the first U. P. roads to be hard-surfaced by the department.

This promise no doubt has been kept by the department to the best of its ability. It involved the completion of two east and west roads the length of the peninsula, and one pike—US-41—across the area from Menominee to Copper Harbor. US-2 is almost completed, there are a few stretches on M-28 remaining in gravel, and one of considerable length on US-41 in Baraga county. Most people agree that the department has done its best under trying circumstances, and are willing to wait with patience for the finishing of the job in its entirety on these three main stems of the U. P. road system.

The agreement worked out at Mackinac Island, however, left Ontonagon county the only one in the Upper Peninsula to get along with nothing but graveled highways. Now it is Ontonagon's turn, and the rest of the peninsula agrees it is high time that Ontonagon is taken care of. The completed US-45 is sure to be a number one feeder to the Lake Superior country from Wisconsin and Chicago, and the paving of the uncompleted portion of M-26 from Rockland to Twin Lakes should be of real benefit to the entire Copper Country. It may be, of course, that there will be no great influx of visitors for some years of war. On the other hand, reduced highway revenues make it by no means certain that these pikes can be improved in the near future, but the peninsula welcomes the assurance of further road work as soon as possible, and believes that Ontonagon should be the first beneficiary.

Postwar Housing Boom

THE United States Chamber of Commerce recently published the results of a survey, which indicated that within the first half year after the close of the war, 1,540,000 families intend to buy or build homes.

The analysis showed that 23 per cent expect to spend $3,000 or less; 27 per cent $3,000 to $5,000; 18 per cent, $5,000 to $10,000; 12 per cent, more than $10,000, and 20 per cent, undetermined as to amount.

Homes of the future, according to housing experts, will keep their individuality, following conventional design but with many improvements in construction and equipment, and they will be more livable rather than just cheaper.

Authorities on home building are quick to correct the erroneous impression, created by feature stories in Sunday magazine supplements, that there will be a veritable revolution in architectural designs. The postwar home will be generally pretty much like the present structures, but will include the improvements that have been made in heating, insulation, soundproofing and other features that will make it more comfortable.

In this postwar housing boom, Escanaba and other Upper Peninsula communities will play a part, for like automobiles, refrigerators, radiators and other things, homes deteriorate and become obsolete with the passing years. There will be a demand for the right size, up-to-date home here and elsewhere after the war.

Billions for Destruction

STUDIES made by the Carnegie Foundation show that 400 billion dollars was spent in the first World War, and everyone knows that World War II, before the last shot is fired, will have cost many times more.

All this money, time, effort and human lives are being wasted in a war of destruction, but still when someone suggests that a few million dollars be spent to prevent a recurrence of these global conflicts he is oftentimes criticized as being a crackpot.

It has been demonstrated, for instance, that fires can be prevented, accidents can be reduced, and other happenings thwarted. The futility of wars has been shown time and time again, but still they recur, largely because so little thought and effort have been devoted to means of their prevention.

The billions being spent for wholesale destruction could provide a comfortable living standard for all the peoples of the world. The majority wants peace and contentment. It is only an insane, power-seeking minority that foments human strife on a global scale. The majority certainly should be able to control the menace if it cooperates for the specific purpose of assuring permanent world peace.

1,000,000 GALLONS OF 'GAS'

(Milwaukee Journal)

There once was doubt, and perhaps reasonable doubt, about the handling of the gasoline supplies of the nation. Why had the civilian supply been so suddenly lowered? Why had motorists been so speedily and sharply restricted in the use of a product that seemed to have been present in the country in superabundant quantities?

A recent explanation by President Roosevelt ought to help allay any remaining doubts that still linger in motorists' minds. Mr. Roosevelt described American air raids on German objectives in a single day. They involved 855 planes, he said. Those planes used nearly 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline and 25,000 gallons of oil. They flew 850,000 miles and traveled 1,400 miles on the ground. And they carried 2,500,000 pounds of bombs, 2,750,000 pounds of ammunition, 800 pounds of maps.

Carrying those loads, flying those distances, smashing essential enemy installations, in a single day—is it any wonder that the flying forces of the United States need and must have a major share of America's petroleum products? Is it not clear why trifling trips by civilian motorists—such trips as are trifling—should and must come to a stop?

WORDS TO WATCH

The radio announcer who tells us that his preparation will destroy "fung-guy (fungi)," makes a quite natural mistake, for in the singular form, fungus, the "g" is hard, as: FUNG-guss. However, in the plural form, fungi, the first syllable rhymes, not with "hung," but with "bun," and the "g" has the sound of "j". The

Fair Enough

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—I heard and I have read Wendell Willkie's remarks on labor relations in his nominating speech in St. Louis and have concluded that he is no more honest than any other trimmer, bidding for the support of the professional tyrants of the unions. For all that he said to the contrary, we may conclude that he would placate and cultivate them and help to strengthen their grip on the people. "The adoption of a wise labor policy is of the utmost importance," he said. That means nothing. "It must not be in the punitive spirit of the southern Democrats Smith-Connelly act. Nor do we want a policy like the present one that divides our country into warring factions of labor leaders and business executives, forcing each to jockey for power and struggle to convert political parties to its purpose. We must, of course, recognize that men who work and do not own, have no adequate economic and social protection except in their collective strength. But, basically, we must proceed on the knowledge that we will never solve the problem of the relationship to labor to management, or either to government, by mere modification of this law or that law. We will solve it only by making labor an essential part of government. In addition to real representation in a real cabinet, labor's representatives shall help determine government's fiscal, domestic and international policies. Thus labor will share the responsibility and the results."

That is all. Who will be the "representatives" of "labor" and just what group of Americans constitute "labor"?

—WILLKIE WAS NOT FRANK—

Mr. Willkie was not frank about these questions but it must be assumed that, like all politicians, he regards such men as Green, Murray and Lewis as the "representatives" and their subjects, including the unwilling captives driven into their unions by the terror and by the political and economic pressure of the Roosevelt government, as "labor."

By omission, Mr. Willkie advised us that he believed an alert, energetic, honest worker must be forbidden, under penalty of complete, permanent ostracism and destitution, to do a fair day's work in excess of the slow-down rule and thus earn more money than the loafer and sulker. He meant that the worst shall be the standard and that the best must conform to that standard, in both production and earnings.

By his opposition to any change in "this law or that law" he throws in with the racketeer who straddles the roads and, in the name of "labor" commits extortion and highway robbery with the sanction of the United States supreme court. He holds with the rule of the dictator who can throw an honest American worker out of work in all union shops throughout the country for the crime of less majesty to a shop steward or for "using unbecoming language" to an underworld racketeer or a traitorous Communist holding office in the union. He confers on the union trial board, a kangaroo court, the power to supersede the regular public courts and inflict terrible penalties on decent workers and their dependent families because he knows that the individual worker, especially after he has been suspended and fired and lost his income, cannot afford to lie idle for months and pay the costs of his appeal to the higher courts of the union and, if rejected there, appeal further to the public courts.

—JUST MORE FASCISM—

Willkie knows that in the absence of amendments to "this law or that law" the boss unionizers whom he regards as "representatives" of "labor" have the power to collect political assessments to be poured into the campaign funds of Wendell L. Willkie even from American workers who would regard his election as a national calamity. He would not disturb this condition by an amendment to "this law or that law" nor would he insist that the constitutions of the unions be compelled to conform to the constitution of the United States.

In whole effect, Mr. Willkie was offering us a fuller and more cynical and brutal development of the Fascism of the unions which we have experienced under the New Deal.

Second choice: SAK-ri-tize
CANTONMENT is commonly mispronounced as "kun-TONE-munt." The first choice rhymes the second syllable with "con, don, non," as: kan-TON-ment. The second choice accents the first syllable, and obscures the "o" in the second syllable, as: KAN-tun-ment.

DETERIORATE. Caution here. Do not telescope the word thus, "duh-TEER-ee-ate." The word is syllabified thus: de-ter-i-o-rate. Therefore, the correct pronunciation, as shown by the accepted dictionaries, is: dee-TER-ee-oh-rate.

NAUSEATE. Two mispronunciations are noted: "NAW-zhee-ate" and "NAW-zee-ate." Watch that tricky second syllable. It should be either "shee" or "see." First choice: NAW-shee-ate. Second choice: NAW-see-ate.

Incidentally, the literal meaning of the Latin nausea (Greek: nau-naia) is "sea-sickness," for naus means "ship." However, the "sea" of nausea does not stand for "the sea." It is merely a coincidence that the last three letters of nausea spell "sea."

WANTING PEACE — It has been said so often that America is a peaceful nation and wants nothing but peace, that we have come to accept it as truth. Yet even today when we are fighting a war not of our choice we are prone to wish for the day when peace will come—and we can relax from rationing.

If we gain nothing from this war except the privilege of returning to our pre-war standard of luxuries, lasting peace can never be attained.

To preach at this time of trial and hardship of continued trial and hardship after the war is to speak opposite to human nature. And yet human nature, being frail, can lead us again into war, as it has led us into war in the past.

Better for us to force from our minds now the thought that our soldiers are fighting and dying so that we may again have all the gasoline, the butter, the luxuries we once had. If the war means nothing more to you than that, better that you forget the ideal of lasting peace and raise your children to become the cannon fodder of 1943.

WE MUST WORK — Lasting peace is possible if we believe it is possible. America has mobilized itself for total war and there is no reason why we should not gird ourselves for an effort to ward total peace.

If this means rationing, hard work and few luxuries for several years after the war ends then it is a small sacrifice indeed. We should know by this time that it is impossible for this country, or any country; labor or industry; one race or one religion to "conquer the world." We must realize that the fundamental principles of democracy must have world-wide acceptance if peace is to be nothing more than a cessation of hostilities, an armed truce between wars.

No plea for self-denial, for sacrifice and unselfishness has ever been popular. It appeals to our ideals, but it is hard work.

If the people of this country could find it in their hearts to work one-half as hard for lasting peace as they now work for war, peace could become a reality.

WHAT THEY THINK — Always through the letters from the men of our fighting forces runs a thread of idealism. They feel it is not enough to fight and die for their country alone—but there must be some greater cause for which they strive. This cause is peace. They do not want to come back to a country selfish, self-centered and egotistically inclined to look upon other nations as outside the pale of civilization. In a recent newspaper article, an anonymous Milwaukee soldier writes:

"If it has proven essential to plan the execution of this war, it is no less essential to plan for its aftermath. The United States government needs a department of peace just as urgently as it needs a department of war. Peace is positive, not a mere negation of war. It is a delicate thing—the world's greatest invention. It must be planned for—now!"

Despite this outspoken idealism of our fighting men, our "practical" men at home go solidly on their way planning for post-war projects which will save the physical America, and leave the soul of America unattended. Certainly there is no harm in planning post-war projects for America—but there should be a determined effort to support those who plan a post-war peace for ourselves and the world.

PSYCHOLOGY OF FEAR — The average American labors under a burden of fear, although he would be the last to admit this.

The world calls to him for spiritual leadership as well as for the products of our factories and our farms. We give generously with our hands and hold back the thoughts, the ideals and the aspirations that could come from our heart. We do this because we are afraid—afraid of meeting acceptance of those ideals by minds grasping for spiritual help.

The burden such acceptance of democratic ideals would place upon us would be tremendous. It would mean that we would have to place the future of our country in the lap of the world, would have to open our minds, dump the Monroe Doctrine in the Atlantic ocean, and look upon our present enemies with charity and understanding.

Perhaps this is too much to ask of any people of any nation. Yet we in America have claimed through several decades that we have within ourselves and our democracy the answer to the problems of the world. We believe this sincerely. We should act with equal sincerity.

NOW THE RETREAT — With the war turning toward inevitable victory for the United Nations, the retreat toward a cavern of seclusion and fear is already under way in America. We see the clouds breaking through and the dawn of a new day—and we dread what responsibilities it will place upon us. Isolation, this time under the guise of nationalism, is being dusted off as a shield against the world.

What we fear is mostly psychological—a fear of the unfamiliar, bred of ignorance and nurtured in the cottonwool of selfishness. Our soldiers who today are rubbing elbows with the people in distant lands know these fears are false. They recognize these men and women of other countries as human beings who pray for the new day which we fear.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Here is one reason why we needed the Azores so badly as an anti-submarine base. The U-boats not only have new devices but also a new strategy and may converge around the bottleneck to the Mediterranean between the Azores and Gibraltar.

DEVICES: Latest Nazi torpedoes are superior to the former type which exploded only on contact. New torpedoes are exploded (F) on contact; (2) by magnetic attraction on coming close to the steel hull; (3) by the vibration of the engines of the ship under attack. This makes it possible for the submarine to succeed in its mission much more frequently than before. A torpedo is much less likely to miss, since missing actual contact with the target does not now mean, as previously, that it misses the target.

STRATEGY: Convoys have now discovered that Nazi subs are hunting in packs of sufficient number to employ the same sort of naval strategy which large units of naval vessels are able to use. A group of submarines on the other side of the convoy will approach within easy firing range and discharge their torpedoes. Observers believe, however, that the main artery of commerce from the United States to the European theater of war—the North Atlantic run—is still so well guarded that the submarine menace is licked so far as that run is concerned. It is feared, however, that the Nazis will now strike at another vulnerable point, namely, the Straits of Gibraltar. Since these straits must be passed by all Allied merchant shipping supplying the Mediterranean theater of war, including North Africa, Sicily, Sardinia, Corsica, Italy and the Adriatic—not to mention all the shipping now passing through the Mediterranean bound for the Straits of Suez and India—this area is due for a concentrated submarine attack.

HIGHER FOOD PRICES — In spite of the White House, the OPA and all the economic stabilizers in Washington, you must soon expect to find the price of strawberry jam increasing sharply. The one-pound jar of strawberry jam from the new pack will cost you five cents more in the grocery store. All dried fruits and vegetables also are going up in price at the canner level. This will mean increases at the retail level, except for a few fruits and vegetables now being subsidized.

JEAN F. CARROLL, new head of the Food Price Division, was asked recently by an OPA associate, "What are we going to say to the press when they find that these increases are being permitted?"

"There just isn't any answer," said Carroll, "except to tell the truth."

OPA was visited recently by the Florida delegation in Congress urging an increase in the price of winter potatoes in order to help Florida growers.

"But," remonstrated Carroll, "how can I operate a Food Price Division, when, on one hand, Congress legislates parity for farmers, and, on the other hand, the President orders food prices kept at the September 15, 1942 level? It seems axiomatic that there must be a subsidy one place or another—either at the farmer level or at the processing level."

AIRWAYS MONOPOLY — Pan American Airways, threatened by competition from other airlines operating in the foreign field under Army Transport Command, has been racking its brain trying to protect its paramount position. Now it proposes a giant U. S. monopoly for foreign airline operation. This monopoly would bring together all U. S. airlines desiring to operate abroad, but it would be a single company with unified direction.

The adoption or rejection of this plan is today one of the most hotly debated questions backstage in the Capital. Certain State Department officials are strongly partisan to the plan, and it has the support of powerful Pan American Airways which cleverly appointed as its directors such government officials as Leo Crowley, Norman Davis of the American Red Cross, Admiral Standley, recent Ambassador to Russia, Charles Francis Adams, ex-Secretary of the Navy, and Lyman Delano, first cousin of FDR.

However, an elaborate document has been prepared by the Civil Aeronautics Board expressing strong opposition to such a corporation, and to the whole idea of monopoly in international airlines. Here are some of the arguments presented in that document:

1. It is desirable to avoid a wild scramble among many companies for foreign operating rights, but this does not mean that one company should have all the rights. Different routes should be allotted to different U. S. lines.

2. CAB would prevent confusion by hearing petitions of all applicants and authorizing only one (or possibly two) for the heavy traffic of the North Atlantic run to apply for foreign landing rights.

3. Competition always makes for better service, lower rates, better equipment, etc.

4. Monopoly is indifferent to the development of new lines which would involve financial risk, whereas competing lines would undertake such risk to the advantage of the public.

The entire question is still before CAB and it has made no public pronouncement. But there is every indication that it will oppose the monopoly of Pan American Airways.

Servicemen's Insurance Policies Are Protected

(Editor's Note: General drafting of pre-war fathers raises many questions about what happens to their financial obligations. This article on insurance is the second of three on servicemen's rights and privileges.)

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—Under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act and the National Service Life Insurance Act, a member of Uncle Sam's armed forces may carry as high as $20,000 in life insurance at an average cost of about $7 a month during his period of service.

The $7 monthly represents what he pays for his service insurance, which he may purchase up to $10,000.

It costs him nothing during his service period to carry $10,000 of his own private insurance, but he must arrange to catch up on past-due premium payments, or to restore the policy to good standing, within two years after his discharge.

Recognizing that many servicemen must come from the so-called middle class which normally carries a sizable amount of private life insurance, Congress wrote into the Civil Relief Act a provision under which the government protects this insurance up to $10,000.

Policies Stay in Effect

In return for a federal guarantee of premium payments, life insurance companies are required, in certain cases, to forego their power to cancel policies held by servicemen on account of non-payment of premiums accruing during the period of service.

The policy remains in effect and the serviceman is given two years after his discharge to repay the premiums or enough of them to prevent the loan or cash value of the policy from dropping below the amount of premium payments due. In the event of death of the insured before the premiums are repaid, the amount due is deducted from the amount payable.

Failure of the insured to restore the policy to good standing within the required time, or to reach some agreement with the insurer, may result in termination of the policy, with the government paying the insurance company the difference between the amount guaranteed and the cash surrender value. The government then would owe the serviceman for the amount paid.

To be eligible for protection under the act, a policy must be on the level premium, endowment, or legal reserve plan or in the nature of life insurance arising out of membership in a fraternal or beneficial organization. A premium must have been paid before Oct. 6, 1942, or not less than 30 days before the date the insured the past week. They were former neighbors in lower Michigan.

entered the military service.

Check Your Policy

A policy is entitled to protection regardless of the amount of loan that may be against it, but cannot be protected if it contains a provision excluding or restricting liability for death arising from military service.

Except by a court order or by consent of the insured, no assignment of a policy (except the insurer in connection with a policy loan) may exercise any right or option by virtue of the assignment.

The law does not prevent a man from carrying more than $10,000 of private life insurance, but the government will guarantee premium payments for only that amount.

The act does not protect premium payments on national service life insurance issued by the government. However, the premium rates on this insurance are low, the cost for $10,000 (the maximum allowable) of five-year level premium term insurance for a person at age 25 being $6.70 per month. At age 30 the cost is $7.10, and at 45 the charge is $9.90.

Government insurance may be applied for without the requirement of a medical examination within 120 days after a person enters the service. After that period, proof of good health must be furnished.

The insurance is granted in multiples of $500 and is payable in event of death to a designated beneficiary within the relationship of wife, child, husband, parent, brother or sister.

How Payments Are Made

After the insurance has been in effect at least one year, and within the five-year term period, it may be converted into ordinary life, 20-payment life or 30-payment life insurance.

It contains provision for waiver of premium payments in the event of continuous total disability for six months or longer.

Proceeds of the insurance are payable in 240 equal monthly installments of $5.51 for each $1,000 of face value if the beneficiary is under 30 years of age at the time of the insured's death. If the beneficiary is over 30, monthly installments are payable during the remaining lifetime, with a guarantee of 120 months.

Unpaid installments at the death of a beneficiary are paid, unless otherwise ordered by the insured, to the widow or widower, children, parents, brothers and sisters, in that order.

SERVICE CLUBS HEAR FARMERS

St. Nicholas Farmers In Program Sponsored By Rotary Club

The Escanaba Rotary club and Kiwanis club in joint meeting Monday noon at the Delta hotel heard a second in a series of programs designed to foster better understanding of Delta county farmers and their problems. The program was arranged by Carl Sawyer and Agricultural Agent E. A. Wenner.

Three farmers from the St. Nicholas area were guests at the meeting. They were Jules Van Damme and Emil DeBacker, both of whom came to this country from Belgium, and Matt Ledvina, who came to Delta county from Kaukauna county, Wisconsin. Van Damme came to the United States in 1912, DeBacker in 1920.

All three of the farmers have made a success of agriculture in the St. Nicholas area, in a section of the county recalled by Carl Sawyer as a burned and cut over land with some stands of hilly timber.

Van Damme said his decision to leave Belgium followed the World War, when farms were crowded and living was difficult. He first settled in the "Seney swamp" area, moved out the same year to come to Delta county. DeBacker told of his difficulty in entering this country. Immigration authorities detained him at Ellis Island because he had less than the minimum $36 required for his entrance.

Now both of the men from Belgium have large and successful farms, and their investment runs up into $50,000 or more. Ledvina has been equally successful, and believes the possibilities for potato growing in this county are equal to those anywhere, an opinion in which the others shared.

In reply to a question, the St. Nicholas men said they believed the people of Escanaba could help the local farmer greatly by purchasing locally grown farm products. Delta county potatoes, they pointed out, are as good if not better than those grown in any other section of the country. They praised the encouragement given potato production in the past four years by the Potato Boosters association.

Touching on federal and state control programs, the farmers expressed themselves as opposed to price control, regulation of slaughtering, and other OPA control measures. Insofar as the farmer is concerned, they said, OPA "is no good at all." They had an equally low opinion of the AAA program.

Asked why some farmers failed while others prospered, they said some farmers "don't work and don't want to work." Their hours, they said, were from 4 o'clock in the morning to 9 o'clock at night.

★ Ask yourself—can you cut more pulpwood this week?
Your country needs every cord you can cut!

So swing your axe for Victory! Start today and cut every cord you possibly can! You'll get greatest cash return by doing your own cutting and hauling.

Get prices and wood specifications from your local buyers or direct from mills.

TIPS ON HOW TO CUT

1. Leave younger trees of better quality; a sufficient number to make a good stand.
2. Cut low stumps!
3. Do not strip the woods—clear cutting or heavy destructive cutting destroys the stand.
4. Careful tree selection means faster growth, frequent future cuttings, better trees and more money over the years.
5. Good forest cutting practices will assure steady income and continuous crops of timber.

Miss Harbenski,
Bonard Tatrow
Wed Saturday

Miss Jeanette Harbenski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harbenski of Garden, and Bonard Tatrow, son of Joseph Tatrow, also of Garden, were united in marriage at a ceremony which took place Saturday morning, October 16, at St. John the Baptist church.

The vows were spoken before Rev. Fr. Nolan McKevitt, who was celebrant of the nuptial high mass at 9 o'clock. F. G. Tebo, soloist of the mass, sang "Ave Maria" at the Offertory.

The bride's only attendant, and maid of honor, was Miss Hazel Duschene Faubert. Claude Duschene, a nephew of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The bride wore a gown of white brocade with gathered bodice, long sleeves and full-length skirt and a fingertip veil which was held in place by a coronet of pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of autumn flowers. Her maid of honor wore blue tulle, floor length, with a shoulder length veil of the same shade and she carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

A wedding breakfast was served to fourteen guests at the Tatrow home, the tiered wedding cake entering the table, while at either end were bouquets of autumn flowers.

The couple, following a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, will live in Garden. Mr. Tatrow is employed there as a school bus driver.

UNION ASKS HEARING
Iron Mountain—About 1,200 members of Local 952, UAW-CIO, Ford workers, voted unanimously at a mass meeting last night in the Kingsford high school auditorium to seek negotiations with the National War Labor board for an adjustment of the wage scale at the Ford plant here, in line with what the union claims are wages paid in other plants engaged in similar production, according to Alex LeGault, Local president.

Contrary to rumor, LeGault said, the action was in no sense a "strike vote."

"We are asking, only, that the War Labor Board send a representative, or representatives, to Iron Mountain, and meet with us in a discussion of the existing wage scale at the Ford plant here," LeGault said.

To help prevent a soggy undercrust in a fruit or berry pie, sprinkle with two tablespoons each of sugar and flour, mixed before adding the filling.

4-H Food Club
Will Serve Hot
Lunch at School

BY FERN BERRY

Shingleton—People need not feel that although they are far from towns or cities that they cannot do important war work. This is how folks at Van Meer and Melstrand, two rather isolated communities as far as war work is concerned feel about doing their bit.

And their war work was with the most important people of this age in America—the children.

It started when they got together and contributed and canned vegetables for a hot lunch project at the Van Meer school where children from both communities are educated to the seventh grade. Soup, beefs, carrots, green, tomatoes, fresh vegetables of different kinds were contributed. But with the cupboards bulging with food, with parents willing to contribute money for sugar, meat and fats for soups, etc., what were they going to do for a cook. That was easy enough. Have a 4-H Foods Club and do their own cooking and serving. Hadn't they heard of the shortage in hired help?

Mrs. F. Berry offered to give two hours a day to the work—calling it her stint in war work. So the girls got together and organized the club with Mrs. Berry their leader and advisor.

This is how they work:

Older girls who have helped at home are chosen as leaders of their group. Three girls are chosen, one of them an older girl, and she has two helpers. This group prepares the food under the direction and with the help of the leader.

Three girls are chosen as committee for dish washing. Each group serves one week.

The girls themselves made three aprons and head bands to be used when serving. These with the dish towels are laundered by the girls and their leader each week.

Girls in Club

Girls who are in the club are: Patsy Gamble, Annabelle Chartrand, Isabel Johnson, Erma Johnson, Betty Bowler, Marjorie Bowler, Delores Bowler, Joan Maddox, Doris Kroening, Pearl Stone, Patsy McClary, Inez Luke, Donna Rower, Rowena Telf, Jeanie Syers.

Some of the smaller children, too young for club work, are on various committees. The boys who have a handicraft club help with getting water, splitting wood and carrying out garbage.

To determine the value of the hot lunch project this year the teacher, Frank L. Berry, has prepared a record of weights. The weight of each child will be taken at the beginning of the hot lunch project, once a month, and a record made of the gains. At the end of the period the two gaining the most weight are given a small prize. This is to encourage children to eat the hot dish and follow through with other good health habits.

Have a "Coke" = Auld Lang Syne

... or how to welcome a returning hero

He'll be looking for the old familiar things—the gang at the corner store, his old room, the family radio. That's why Coca-Cola makes such a perfect welcome. He learned to like its ice-cold refreshment in his boyhood. In camp and overseas it helps him make new friends. On his return it says to him, Son, you're home again. In all the world there's no better way to say Auld Lang Syne than that simple American phrase—Have a "Coke".

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

SCRAP CLEAN-UP NOVEMBER 3

One Day Campaign To Be Conducted Throughout The County

A complete, late-fall clean-up of all available scrap metals in Schoolcraft county is being planned to culminate with a one-day pick-up in November 3.

In accordance with a nation wide salvage campaign, the local drive will be aimed at collecting all scrap metal, including tin cans, in the county. Tin cans, however, should be prepared for collection as outlined by the federal salvage committee.

Present plans call for a collection depot being organized in each community in the county. Locally, the city hall will be the collection center. At Gulliver, the Bowman Oil Company will be the collection center; at Germfask, the John Lustila store; at Seney, the state highway garage with Francis Morrison in charge; Hiawatha residents will be handled by the city collectors; Leonard and Carley store at Cooks will be the headquarters there; and Stanley Shust at Thompson will be asked to supervise scrap collection in his area.

At a committee meeting here Monday night, it was decided that the local OGD salvage committee would be asked to make a list of all homes where scrap is available. City trucks would then call at the designated homes on November 3. In the rural areas, persons with scrap in small quantities will be asked to sell their scrap at the collection centers. In case of large amount of scrap, trucks would be sent to make the collection, it was decided.

Meanwhile, every home owner in the county is urged to scour his property for scrap before the snow comes, and have it ready in a pile for collection on November 3.

Girl Scouts Will Sell Tickets For Spud Show Banquet

Girl Scouts will conduct the sale of banquet tickets for the Upper Peninsula Potato Show, which will take place on October 28, it was announced yesterday by Keith Bundy, banquet chairman.

Aim of the banquet committee is 300 tickets sold, Bundy said. Ladies of the Methodist church will serve the meal in the school gymnasium.

Dr. Arthur R. Upson of Minneapolis, nationally known financial expert, affiliated with the Federal Reserve Bank, will address the banquet meeting.

Three Manistique Motorists Injured

Marquette, Wis.—Three Manistique, Mich., persons miraculously escaped serious injury about 5:45 p. m. Sunday when a car in which they were riding rolled over several times and landed in a ditch on highway 64 in the town of Grover.

Vernon A. Patz, 26, the driver, lost control of his car when the left rear tire blew out at a point about a half mile west of Harmony. With him at the time were Mrs. Beatrice Patz, 26, wife of Lyle Patz, and her four-month-old daughter. They were returning from Green Bay where Mrs. Patz had visited with her father who is ill.

The child had only slight scratches. Mrs. Patz a slight shoulder wrench and bruises and Vernon Patz bruises and a minor internal injury. NO FATHERS IN NOV. INDUCTION

Time Is Too Short To Process Them, says Local Board

There will be no pre-Pearl Harbor fathers available for November induction, according to a survey of all classifications in the Schoolcraft county Selective Service board.

Although a number of fathers have been ordered up for their local physical examinations, time is too short to possibly process them for availability in November, it was said. However, the board is acting on orders from Lansing headquarters directing the immediate processing of fathers into class 1-A if possible.

The survey made in the local office discloses the number of registrants in each classification. Already, Schoolcraft county has 750 men in the armed services, the survey shows, including 506 inducted, 203 enlisted, and 41 men still in the services, but who are over age 38. The latter classification is known as 1-C (H).

There are 483 fathers in class III-A, and 240 others in class III-A (H). Schoolcraft county has 244 men in class 4-F, 48 of whom are over age 38.

In the deferred classifications, there are 7 fathers in 2-A, 45 fathers in 2-B; 11 non-fathers in 2-A, and 6 non-fathers in 2-B. Schoolcraft's total manpower of military age is 1994 men, the records show, including men already in service.

To Observe Navy Day Here Oct. 27

Commander F. J. Pavlot of the local post of the American Legion, has been advised of his appointment as chairman of the committee of arrangements that is to make plans for the observance of Navy Day here on Wednesday, October 27th.

Chairman Pavlot says committee appointments will be made at once, members to represent the city, schools, various veteran, patriotic and club and other organizations. He asks also, that luncheon and service clubs note the anniversary at their meetings closest to October 27th, that patriotic exercises be held in the public and parochial schools, calls for a general display of the national colors on both public and privately owned buildings, and suggests the possibility of a public luncheon program, or parade, or both.

Similar programs are being arranged throughout Michigan, under the sponsorship of a general committee headed by Sam T. Keller of Detroit, as well as throughout the nation. Both the Army and Navy are liberally represented on Mr. Keller's general committee for the State. C. W. Hungerford is in charge, under Mr. Keller, of the general arrangements for the State outside of Wayne county.

Proclamations urging all to interest themselves in the observance of Navy Day and to participate in the ceremonies if possible, have been issued by President Roosevelt, Governor Kelly of Michigan and the mayors of hundreds of cities and communities. Mayor Teho will be requested to sign such a proclamation here.

According to Commander Pavlot, there is greater need this year than ever before for the celebration of Navy Day, not only as encouragement to our sailors and troops at home and abroad, but also to stir civilian determination to do the utmost toward winning the war speedily.

"The purpose of the observance itself," he stated, "is to pay honor to the members of all branches of our fighting forces, past and present, and particularly to those brave men and women who today are fighting our battles to free the world from murderous dictatorship. Such encouragement to our Navy and our Armies seems all the more important to us of this community inasmuch as many of our young men—sons, fathers, husbands, friends—are out there fighting our fight."

"I ask the aid of all organizations, including military units, veterans and their auxiliaries, clubs, societies, the schools, newspapers, municipal and county officials, and the churches in arranging and carrying out the local observance."

Commander Pavlot stated that he will announce the membership of a strong Navy Day arrangements committee at once and will set the date for a preliminary meeting.

It wakes the harvest hands—and everyone else in town.

Ironwood Takes Stranglehold On U. P. Football Championship

STAMBAUGH IS ONLY BARRIER

Eskymos Virtually Eliminated As Result Of 12-0 Defeat

Ironwood took a virtual stranglehold on the upper peninsula football championship Saturday when Iron Mountain toppled the previously undefeated Eskymos, 12-0. Ironwood has four victories in upper Michigan competition, besides two triumphs scored against Wisconsin teams, and the Red Devils are unbeaten and untied. Ironwood has one more game scheduled in upper peninsula competition, with Stambaugh, which the Red Devils are favored to win handily.

Stambaugh are Houghton and Hancock but the Copper Country team have been playing a ring-around-the-rosy with each other and their schedules are not comparable with other ranking teams in the peninsula. Moreover, each has been tied at least once.

Both Escanaba and Negaunee retain slender hopes for a crack at the mythical championship but the Ironwood Red Devils can cash those hopes by trimming Stambaugh, which they are expected to do.

The standings follow; only U.

Munising Schools Will Issue Ration Books Next Week

The issuing of ration book four in all the elementary schools, Munising township will be carried out on the following schedule:

Wednesday, October 27—4:00-5:30 and 7:00-9:00 p. m.

Thursday, October 28—9:00-11:30 a. m., 1:00-5:30 and 7:00-9:00 p. m.

Friday, October 29—9:00-11:30 a. m. and 1:00-5:30 p. m.

All elementary schools will be closed Thursday and Friday, October 28-29.

The time schedule has been figured so there is plenty of time allotted to take care of all people in the district. Only one person should come to secure all the books for the family. This one person must be an adult.

Book three must be presented for every person who is to receive book four. Any one who does not possess book three now should make immediate application to the ration board. The schools will not be able to supply book three.

Every person should go to the elementary school nearest his home.

Application blanks will be distributed on Monday, October 25. There is not an extra supply of these blanks, and each one should use the blank which he receives. It must be completed before approaching the registrar to receive the new ration books. Those who appear at the registration place without their application blanks made out will be required to wait while those who appear with their application are taken care of.

Plenty of registrars will be provided. If every one follows out the instructions, there will be no long waits, and every one will be taken care of satisfactorily. They ask your co-operation. Do these things:

1. Send one responsible adult for an entire family group.

2. Have the application blank made out in advance.

3. Bring a book three for each person who is to receive a book four.

4. As many as possible should use the morning hours, as afternoon and evening hours have been the rush periods previously.

Manistique To Buckle Down

Crawling Out Of Slump In Preparation For Marquette

Manistique Emeralds will attempt this week to pull themselves out of a slump which last Saturday placed them at the mercy of the frisky Sault Blue Devils. They will go to Marquette this week and to play the final game on their schedule.

Coach Thor Reque yesterday said that every effort is being made to pull his athletes out of the mental dumps and it was apparent that they were suffering from a physiological let-down before they tackle the strong Marquette eleven Saturday. Several changes in lineup are being tried this week.

The Sault outfit started out like a bunch of young colts last Saturday. Their activity was characterized by real enthusiasm, and they pranced through a demoralized Manistique team like water through a sieve. The second half was well underway before the Reque-men found themselves buckled down to serious play.

In the last half they held the Sault 6 to 7, proving that the Sault bark was worse than its bite.

Marquette, too, will be a tough customer for the Reque-men. Although Marquette lost to Sault 7 to 6, they tied Ishpeming, 19 to 19, and plastered Munising and Newberry over Marquette. But Manistique won over Munising and Newberry on an equal basis, showing that potentially they may be on a par with Marquette.

Opening line will be announced Friday.

Following their annual Saturday night at 6:30 at the clubhouse, which will have roast duck as the main course, the Escanaba Golf club has hooked another season windup feature event for Sunday afternoon, this one on the links if the snow holds off that long.

The Sunday attraction will be a special grudge match between two well-known heavyweight dark horses which is expected to take up practically all of the afternoon and will be a finish fight until one of the players throws down his public. No admission will be charged, but those in the gallery will be asked to help carry the contestants back to the clubhouse.

Cards will be enjoyed after the stag supper Saturday night.

Football Builds Character

There is a standard gag among the football fraternity that a coach with a losing record is building character. It's supposed to take some of the sting out of the defeats. Peculiarly enough, the gag is trite but it also has a semblance of truth because a few pastings usually knocks something into a football player's head that he can never get from a bookful of victories.

The full truth is that not defeats alone, nor victories alone, contribute most to a man's education from football, but rather a combination of both. A football player should get a taste of the sweet as well as the sour in order to get a full understanding of what each means.

Football, and particularly prep football, is an education in the art of living. Life is no unending process of the sublime and the sooner an individual learns that the path through life is strewn with pitfalls and heartaches as well as roses and honey, the better he becomes fitted to adjust himself to the vicissitudes of living. Football helps him gain that knowledge early and with a minimum of mental anguish.

The Eskymos built themselves some character last Saturday, or rather they built something into their character that will stick with them for a long time. They had come to take victory complacently. When they walked off the football field at Iron Mountain, beaten, 12-0, their dreams of a football championship gone, the bitter disappointment must certainly have left a better understanding of life and its moods. Unfortunately, the full impact of the importance of this lesson may not be recognizable for them until the sharp edges of the disappointment have smoothed.

Hit And Miss

Note to A Football Fan from Manistique. . . Sorry, it has been impossible to keep the weekly reports on individual football scoring in the peninsula because some game accounts reported in peninsula newspapers have not included the names of scorers. . . What's happened to the quick kick? . . . Most high school teams playing without a safety man are suckers for the quick kick. . . but I have not seen it attempted yet this season. . . although I have seen plenty of occasions when it would have sent the defense back on its heels. . . The Yanks and Cards have been given an opportunity to trade their baseball caps for Japanese Zero planes. . . A Marine air fighting squadron in the Pacific promised to shoot down a Zero for each cap received. . . Fair enough, eh? . . . After the Michigan-Notre Dame game, Gov. Kelly and other dignitaries went to the home of Dr. Alexander Ruthven, Michigan prexy, upon invitation from Dr. Ruthven for luncheon. . . They all arrived as per schedule. . . but Dr. Ruthven wasn't home. . . He was called to Washington a few days before the game and was flown to England on a secret mission. . . He couldn't warn his guests, of course, since his unexpected trip was a military secret.

THRILLS ADDED IN BASKETBALL

Unpopular Point System For Breaking Ties Is Tossed Out

Lansing, Oct. 19 (P)—The basketball rules committee of the state high school athletic association moved today to provide high school cage spectators with additional thrills, expecting wartime interruptions of the college sport will increase the numbers of customers.

Tossing out the unpopular point system of breaking tie scores, the committee ordered three overtime periods to settle deadlocks. The new ruling said either team must lead by two points at the end of the first or second overtime period, but that one point only would be required to break the tie in the third overtime period.

The committee also altered the rule forbidding players of a team possessing the ball from staying more than three seconds in the free throw area. The new rule bars only the player with the ball from the area for more than that length of time.

The committee asked referees to enforce more strictly rules requiring that competing teams wear contrasting suits, and demanded greater enforcement of a rule allowing two free throws upon commission of a personal foul.

Coaches attending the meeting said attendance has increased materially at high school games and that squads and reserve teams are larger than ever before, especially in the larger cities.

Until further notice, the shop will be open regularly in the afternoon under the direction of Art Peterson. Mr. Peterson will feature toys, novelties, games, simple novelties and activities, including basket weaving, tap dancing, photography, and others can be made available if enough interest is shown.

Everyone, regardless of age, sex, or social position is invited to attend the center and participate in the activities. Many more facilities and activities, including basket weaving, tap dancing, photography, and others can be made available if enough interest is shown.

Chicago, Oct. 19 (P)—Traders were disappointed to move slowly today pending crystallization of ceiling price talk and more definite indications of the size of the new crop movement. With the result that all grain futures prices eased on fractional to more than a cent on scattered selling.

At mid-session some aggressive bidding and a little business with distillers tended to check the downward trend, but a heavier undertone developed near the close of session and all grain prices closed at near the day's lowest levels. Wheat finished at 1.18 1/2 to 1.18 3/4 lower, December $1.55 1/2 to $1.55 3/4, May $1.53 3/4 to $1.53 1/2, and the day's high prices of 7-8 to 1-8 1/2, December $1.12 7-8.

SHOT WHILE HUNTING
Menominee—Menominee's first serious hunting accident of the current season occurred Sunday morning when John Kellner, 1201 Holmes avenue, was wounded when a 12 gauge shotgun in the hands of his son, Raymond, accidentally discharged.

Kellner and his son were hunting in the woods near their Banat camp on the Menominee river and the youth's gun discharged as he was bringing it up to take aim at a partridge that had just flushed.

Kellner was walking ahead of the boy only a pace or so and the full force of the blast hit him in the upper right arm, inflicting serious and painful injuries.

RECREATIONAL CENTER OPENS

Schedule Of Activities Announced; Leaders Selected

Names of the recreational leaders who will conduct activities at the City Recreation Center which will open this afternoon at 3:30 and duties of each were announced yesterday by the city recreation department.

Mrs. Frank Brotherton will return to the table games room which will be located in the same place as last year. In addition to three ping pong tables, many other games including checkers, go, mill, Italy, miniature shuffleboard, Chinese Checkers, ring toss, bean bag toss, will be available. A number of ping pong leagues are planned in addition to other tournaments and special contests.

Gym activities in the afternoon will be directed by Mickey Kuchner, high school basketball star. Boys will have the gym Monday, Wednesday and Friday while girls will have it the other two days. Ages under 11 will have the period from 4:00 to 4:30 and ages 11 years of age and over but not over eighth grade will have the remaining time until 5:30.

Arts and Craft Program
Howard Dufour, who was successful in organizing basketball and volleyball leagues last year, will direct evening gym activities. The tentative schedule is as follows: Monday, boys' basketball; Tuesday, 7:00 to 8:30, girls' basketball; 8:30 to 10:00, recreational volleyball; Wednesday, 7:00 to 8:30, girls' volleyball; 8:30 to 10:00, open basketball; Friday, tentatively scheduled for boys' basketball but subject to change if circumstances warrant.

Afternoon arts and crafts and sewing will be directed by Mrs. Fred LaChapelle, who has been assigned three evening periods for older girls and women. Hours will be 3:30 to 5:30 and 7:00 to 10:00. Included in the program will be a specific amount of activity directly connected with war services.

Miss Maria Schuster has consented to spend Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the center but will not be able to start until next week. Miss Schuster will specialize in making Christmas gifts and will again feature leather stuffed animals which have been extremely popular in past years.

As the variety of Christmas gifts this year is apt to be limited, the activities directed by Miss Schuster and also by Mrs. LaChapelle will give everyone a chance to make many desirable items at nominal cost.

The hostess for the social room where comic books, magazines, small games, puzzles, and other activities are available will be Lorraine Day, secured through the services of the high school placement bureau. A record player and records are in the room and dancing will be featured. The main purpose of this room is to serve as a hang out room where everyone is made to feel welcome and where the participants may gather to read, talk, dance, or just be comfortable.

Until further notice, the shop will be open regularly in the afternoon under the direction of Art Peterson. Mr. Peterson will feature toys, novelties, games, simple novelties and activities, including basket weaving, tap dancing, photography, and others can be made available if enough interest is shown.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—Thursday afternoon a British sailor sat in a coach of a Washington-to-N. Y. train, reading a book. After the train had left Philadelphia, he looked up from his reading, and noticed the lady in the coach-seat adjoining his—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. This is how Mrs. Roosevelt happened to be in that coach: She had attended a luncheon given by the "William C. Bullitt for Mayor Committee" in Philadelphia. The train on which she had a Pullman reservation was 10 minutes late. But another train was in the station, ready to leave. "All right," Mrs. Roosevelt told the stationmaster, "I'll just go into the coach." "But it'll be crowded," said the stationmaster. "Why not wait the 10 minutes?" "Ten minutes," replied Mrs. Roosevelt, "will give me enough time to go home first and dress for dinner."

SENATOR ROBERT LAFOLLETTE is at the Madison General Hospital in Wisconsin, recuperating from an attack of virus pneumonia. Katherine Dunham, who holds two college degrees and was about to be honored by an Eastern university, read the advertised quote from the N. Y. Times, about her show—the quote: "Sex in the Caribbean is doing all right"—and sighed: "Well, there goes my honorary degree." W. B. Lewis, who headed the Radio division of OWI has returned to CBS. He's making a nation-wide tour, for ideas, discussions and post-war radio.

Undersecretary of the Interior Abo Fortas took his draft board physical yesterday. ERICH MARIA REMARQUE, listened to a group of ex-Germans discussing a Free German Government in which some former German leaders would participate. "Are you in favor of putting these former leaders back in power?" "Once I bought a house, furnished it beautifully and because I loved it so much, I got two big watch-dogs for it," said Remarque. "But then the house burned down. So I built another one, and am furnishing it beautifully again. Should I do you think, use those same watch-dogs again?"

SINCLAIR LEWIS' movie, which he wrote for MGM, is a western with political implications. The Ross Sisters, the acrobats at the Diamond Horse-shoe, are Okies—and they once were interviewed by John Steinbeck. Albert Bein, who wrote "Landy of Fame," the play which closed after a week's run, is returning to California. Bein's last play was "Heavenly Express," with John Garfield and Harry Carry. "Same story as before," sighed Bein, last week. "New York—I came, I saw, I was conquered." A member of the Arabian entourage now visiting Washington went shopping and reported: "In my country, they kiss my feet. Here, they step on them."

AT THE CHEZ PAREE in Chicago, a man asked Harry Richman: "Do you remember me?"

Richman shook his head. "Well, then I lose my bet," the man groaned. "Ann Pennington introduced us, in 1928. I made a bet that you'd remember me." "I'm sorry, but I really don't remember," said Richman. "By the way—who'd you bet with?" "I made a $50 bet with the bald man at that rindside table. He met you last night." The befogged Richman stared at the rindside table, and then suggested: "If you want to win your money back, bet your friend that I don't remember anything that happened last night."

OSCAR COX, assistant to the Solicitor-General and chief counsel to Lend-Lease, expects his induction notice shortly. "Sad Sack," the comic-strip which appears in "Yank" and is a favorite of all soldiers, will survive the war. Its soldier-creator has been signed by King Features, effective upon the termination of the war. Charles Schwartz, publicity director of the U. S. Treasury, has become a Captain in the Army. Because Gertrude Lawrence's radio program is witnessed by as many people as attend a Broadway opening, and because the network needs more space, the Blue Network is buying the Ritz Theatre.

THE FORTHCOMING production, by George Abbott, of William Saroyan's "Get Away, Old Man!" reminded one of the author's friends about the time Saroyan was even more prolific than he usually is. He wrote at a furious pace, on the eve of his becoming a soldier, so that when he'd joined the Army he could devote all his time to soldiering. "Why do you write so much?" Saroyan was asked. "Because," he explained, "I want to enjoy some good reading."

Melstrand

Melstrand—Frank D. Stebbins and son Gaylord are in Owosso where Mr. Stebbins will hunt birds in the area for a week. Mrs. Effie Syers and little son are visiting Mrs. Syer's father, Arthur Bower. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Maddox are the parents of a baby daughter.

Many of the Melstrand children have been ill. Evening services at the Melstrand schoolhouse are no longer held by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maddox. Bud Demagola suffered a badly cut index finger when he was adjusting something on the motor of his car. It caught in the fan.

The diamond is the hardest, most enduring substance in nature.

SET WAR FUND COUNTY QUOTAS

Townships, Cities Called On To Raise Total Of $30,000

While United War Fund solicitors were active yesterday in the townships, in Escanaba and Gladstone, announcement was made by Gerald Cleary, county War Fund drive chairman, of quotas for all of the campaign units.

The total which Delta county is to raise in the national drive is $30,000. The national quota is 125 million dollars, and over half of this amount will go to finance the USO for the coming year. Sixteen other war relief agencies, including United Seamen's Service and War Prisoners' Aid, share in the remainder.

With the consent of United War Fund, Delta county has included in the campaign drives to locally finance the Boy Scouts, Salvation Army, Campfire Girls, and cod liver oil fund.

Reports reaching the county War Fund headquarters yesterday from some of the townships indicated that several township school boards and township boards are preparing to make contributions to the fund. Because of this, Cleary yesterday advised township committees to contact their school and township boards for contributions.

News From Men In The Service

Brothers In Service—PFC Edward F. Carlson, U. S. Marines, and PFC Gerald Carlson, U. S. Navy, 18 and 20 years old, respectively, have returned to their duties following a furlough spent in Escanaba visiting their parents, City Clerk Carl E. Anderson and Mrs. Anderson.

PFC Edward Carlson left Monday for Camp Mianer, San Diego, Cal., where he is assigned to an aviation base. He enlisted in the Marine last July, after graduating from Escanaba high school.

PFC E. Carlson PFC G. Carlson

PFC Gerald Carlson left Sunday for Treasure Island, San Francisco, where he is taking additional training to attain the rating of electrician's mate. He expects to be assigned to a cruiser shortly. He graduated from Escanaba high school in 1941 and has been in the Navy since January 20, receiving his boot training at Farragut, Idaho.

SUPPORT DELTA COUNTY'S UNITED WAR FUND DRIVE

"WHEN I COME HOME"

I dream, for I find solace in my dreams,
When dreams contrive to pierce this ghastly place;
When night blots out the evils of the day,
Across the tortured miles I see your face.
And on the breeze I hear you call to me,
A bouyant call, that leaps across the foam;
A promise of a Paradise to be,
Some day when men are free, and I come home.

When I come home, Ill, bring my precious dreams,
And you and I will take them one by one
And blend them with the beauty of the hills,
The song of birds, the largess of the sun.
Then I'll forget the horrors I have known,
In this foul place where Death alone holds sway,
And you will teach my anguished heart to sing
A song of hope, when I come home some day.

Cling to your dreams, for Peace will come again,
In shining robes; across the eastern sky
The world will watch the reddening of the dawn
When Fate reprieves the millions marked to die.
When Satan, wearied of his hymn of Hate,
Calls back to hell the bestial sons of Cain,
When Justice walks unchallenged on the earth,
God willing, sweetheart, I'll come home again.
